

Five Loaves Two Fish The Klipplaat Remedial Reading Project May 2018

The aim of Five Loaves Two Fish is to bolster education in our little town of Klipplaat. Many of the local farm staff send their children to school here, and we have seen the need to intervene and help where we can.

The Remedial Reading Project is still going strong. Our two teachers continue to help children learn to read, every school day. They have more than 100 children on their lists, and see them all at least once a week.

In the top picture you can see them both in action in the same room, while the other photos show more detail of their methods.

Our reading materials have been specially designed for making reading interesting to children in a rural town such as Klipplaat. If anyone out there would like to help children in your own town, please contact us, as we can share our books and worksheets with you.

In addition to these paying these two remedial teachers, Five Loaves Two Fish also pays a small stipend to Mr Brian Devine, a volunteer teacher at the local high school, who is studying by correspondence. The project pays his study fees, as well as those of Ms Williams. Both of these dedicated people will soon be fully qualified teachers, able to make an even bigger contribution to education in our area.

Recently Five Loaves Two Fish was granted Non-Profit Organisation status, with registration number 204-694 NPO. This is useful to people who want to claim donations they make as tax deductions.

Please consider supporting this project. We need more people to come on board to keep this important work going.
